

GREGORY MARK JENNINGS BOTANY AWARD

1. The purpose of this annual award is to promote the acknowledgment and dissemination of research in the field of botany. The annual award will support graduate students to travel for the purpose of presenting their research to a professional audience, or for expenses related to publishing their research. Eligible students are those pursuing a graduate degree in Biology, with a preference for those students with an area of research in botany. These guidelines shall uphold the following conditions:
  - a. The Award is only open to graduate students, and only as individuals.
  - b. Eligible students for the Award are those whose research is worthy of presentation to a professional audience or of publication and who intend to present their research at a professional gathering or to submit their research for publication. A condition of receipt of the award funds is that recipients must present evidence of being accepted at a professional meeting, submission of their research for publication, or similar evidence.
  - c. Allowable expenditures are those that support travel for the purpose of presentation or expenses related to publications;
  - d. Award candidates must submit a Cover Sheet and Application for the Gregory Mark Jennings Botany Award.

Funds are distributed to students through one grant allocation per year, which is administered by the Botanical Award Committee.

Announcement of award will be made by late April.
